

You're Looking At A Miracle

©2001 Diane Needham Mummert/BMI

Tears filled his eyes as Jesus reached to touch him/In the law that was forbidden, for a leper was unclean/For years he's been an outcast with no hope of returning/Now he could go back to his family and not a blemish could be seen

Chorus:

He said when you look at me, you're looking at a miracle/For it's a wonder that I'm standing here today/Everyone else said it was impossible/But just one touch from Jesus and my whole world was changed/There're ain't no denying that it's true/For when you look at me, you're looking at a miracle

Now tears fell from her eyes at the miracle unfolding/For her husband knelt there praying and now his sins were washed away/He was the kind that never listened when someone shared the Gospel/But in a moment of repentance all eternity was changed

Repeat Chorus

Tag: There ain't no denying that it's true/For when you look at me, you're looking at a miracle